Day 6 & 7 –Nov. 6-7 We arrive at Kahului, Maui at 8:00 am we will spend 2 days on this beautiful island. On the island of Maui, volcanic Mount Haleakala is the dominant physical feature and figures prominently in many of the shore excursions from the port of Kahului. You can be an early riser and see the sun come up over Haleakala or be a bit more leisurely and come up yourself, in a helicopter, for a not-to-be-forgotten view of the volcano and the island. For those of you who like to ride bikes but hate climbing hills, how does a 38-mile trip – downhill all the way – from the 10,000-foot summit of Mount Haleakala, sound? Maybe you'd rather hike the moonscape-like crater of Haleakala? You can drive to Hana, picnic and enjoy the trip back with a tummy fill of island cuisine. Or, if wet is your thing, hike in the rain-forest and swim in waterfall pools. Jeeps and tour buses take you on-road and off-road to destinations in Hana for adventures, shopping, dining and sightseeing.

Day 8 - Nov. 8 -Today we are docked at Hilo on the Big Island of Hawaii. On the Big Island of Hawaii you can: swim, snorkel, parasail, hike in a rainforests, kayak, paddle a Hawaiian canoe, watch whales, surf, go boogie boarding, scuba diving, fine dining, sail, go big game fishing, hunting, bird watching, take pictures, go in a submarine to see coral reefs, visit historical Hawaiian sites, take bus tours, boat tours, helicopter tours, hiking tours, sailboat tours, and mountain bike tours, go to a luau, learn how to hula and weave lauhala, or get a tan and relax! Tonight (weather permitting) and if the lava is flowing we have a once in a life time chance to see hot flowing lava as we sail by The Kilauea Volcano . The world's most active volcano, is currently celebrating over 20 years of continuous eruption by lighting up the nighttime sky with glowing lava.

Day 9 - Nov. 9-We arrive at Kona, Hawaii at 7:00 am. Journey from the rugged, black shores of this volcanic island to the spectacular waterfalls and rain forests. Or visit the famous Parker Ranch—Hawaii's own version of the Wild West with rolling pastureland overlooking peaceful bays. Blue sky and blue water dominate the port of Kona, on the Big Island of Hawaii, and they are integral to virtually every shore excursion. The Big Island Helicopter Spectacular gives you a sweeping visual tour of the whole island, including its lava flow. Back to the lush green earth, there's the Cloud Forest Botanical Walk, the fascinating Road to Kona trip, and, at the end of a lovely day, a private romantic sunset dinner on the beach. The three S's – sailing, snorkeling and scuba – take you to explore the remote Kona coast and its caves and lava tubes, to cavort among the whales, and to relax aboard sailboats and catamarans. Sport fishing is another stellar outing for your vacation on the BigIsland. The 12,000-square-ft. Aloha Center is just a block away from Nawiliwili Harbor's disembarkation center. It features an art gallery, coffee shop, clothing store, helicopter tour and moped rental outlets, drawing and poetry classes, and 16 arts and crafts vendors. Wares include wooden bowls, paddles and boxes; jewelry; candles; Hawaiian quilts; slippers; and beauty products. Shoppers also will want to browse at Harbor Mall and Anchor Cove. Gay & Robinson Sugar Plantation is one of only two working sugar plantations in Hawaii (the other is on Maui). A two-hour tour takes you into the fields and factory. You'll learn about the history of the plantation; how cane is planted, irrigated and harvested; and how sugar is processed.

Day 10 & 11– Nov. 10 & 11 -We arrive in Nawiliwili, Kauai at 8:00am. Kauai is the oldest of the eight major Hawaiian Islands, with volcanic rock dating back 5.5 million years, but it displays all the beauty and vigor of youth. From lush rain forests and valleys to majestic mountains and long stretches of white sand, there's no question: Nature takes center stage here. In fact, Kauai has 43 beaches -- more per mile of coastline than any of the other islands. Only 3 percent of the island has been developed for commercial and residential use; the rest are agricultural and conservation lands. Two-thirds of Kauai's 533 square miles are impenetrable.

Day 12– Nov. 12 - Disembark in Honolulu. If you are doing our air package we will tour more of Oahu and then the bus will transfer us to the airport. We will arrive back in Atlanta on Sunday Nov. 13, 2022.

Cruising is a great way to travel. You have the same room on the ship each night and all your food is included on the ship. There are many free activities on the boat and also lots of places to relax and read or take a nap.
